
Title: <h3>About finth desryn

Author: Historian Laurette

As Master of Arms for the Paladin's Guild, Finth Desryn uncovered the paladin Juo'nar's embezzlement of funds and arms, which led to greater events. Finth was named Commander of the Guard for the City of Trinsic by its former Commander, Crawworth. He came into possession of a necklace, named "Mondains Embrace", taken from Minax. In his wartime efforts to learn more about it, Finth sent his wife, Tali, by secret caravan to Skara Brae, where the necklace was to have been studied. Ambushed by monstrous forces, the caravan was [next] forced into the caves West of Trinsic. Finth's rescue party arrived too late- Tali and the rest of her company were slain, though the necklace was reclaimed. Alerted to its existence, the now Liche Juo'nar sought and took the necklace, using its power over Death to raise the undead armies which conquered Trinsic while Finth grieved over his wife's death. [next] The following is a April 1998 account of history as it unfolded:

Back in Trinsic, it was dusk and, at the Hall, a crowd surrounded the captain of the Paladins.

Praznigar rushed towards him and exclaimed:

“Juo’nar is dead! His corpse lies in Occlo.”

Finth turned towards him:

“Can this be true? Have we finally won? Didst thou find anything on him? A magical amulet of some sort?”

Praznigar looked puzzled.

“Nay, milord. I did not. Mayhaps, Angel Eyes has it.”

A man from the crowd started to shout.

“I am in communication with him. He is on his way!”

Soon enough, Angel Eyes appeared and handed over the item to Finth who laid it on a table lighted by two candles. Finth explained:

“Tis the necklace of Cynthal Mane. Do not ask me who he is. That name is unknown to me. What can I tell thee is that it was with this necklace, this powerful artifact, that Juo’nar controlled his evil hordes.”

The crowd soon dispersed to speculate on the powers of the necklace. Admist it, I saw Lord Savage come towards me.

“Korl, is Finth here? I must speak with him. Remember the caravan that was ambushed by Juo'nar? I have the captain's wife's necklace ..”

“This way, Sav.”

We both walked towards Finth who was looking intently at the artifact on the table.
Savage addressed him:

“Milord, I was one of the men who helped recover items from the ambushed caravan in which thy wife died .. I have her necklace, I could not find thee till now.”

Finth looked at Savage for a while with sad eyes and nodded. He gently took the necklace
,upon which the words “May the virtues be our guide” were engraved,
from Savage's hand and
slowly uttered:

“The nightmare
is finally over. I have my revenge.”
